L. A. SLAYING SEEMS SOLVED

Police Say Man Admits Killing One of Four Women.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 13—Inspector Norris Stensland of the sheriff's office announced today apparent solution of one of four brutal slayings of women in Los Angeles and vicinity in the last two months.

He said Myron Funk, 23, a husky foundry moulder of nearby South Gate, signed a statement admitting he killed Mrs. Mae Lorena Preston, 46, also known as Mae Lund, a friend of his and his father, Frank Funk, 52, a cement contractor.

The father and son had been held since Tuesday night on suspicion of murder but Frank Funk was released early today. The semi-nude, strangled body of Mrs. Preston, who lived in Bellflower, Calif., was found Tuesday along the San Gabriel river near suburban Norwalk.

Stensland said a murder complaint would be filed today against Myron Funk.

Los Angeles police, meantime, questioned acquaintances of Miss Evelyn Winters, 42, whose nearly nude beaten body was discovered, also Tuesday, along railroad tracks near the civic center.

Booked for questioning in the slaying of Miss Winters, former studio legal secretary, was James J. Tiernan Jr., red-haired bowling alley pin-setter who, Capt. Jack Donohoe said, acknowledged he and Miss Winters had spent Sunday night and Monday together, and that she was "very drunk" when she left his hotel room about 8 p. m. Monday. That was the last he saw her, Donohoe quoted Tiernan as saying.

Jolice continued to hold George F. Wickliffe, 28, railroad worker from Joplin, Mo., who discovered the body. He denied he knew anything of her death.

Two other unsolved killings were those of Elizabeth (Black Dahlia) Short, 22, whose nude, bisected body was discovered Jan. 15, and of Mrs. Jeanne T. French, 45, found tramped to death Feb. 10.

Passengers in Car Suffer Serious Injuries.

A Greyhound bus and an automobile were involved in a Delaware accident last night at 9:36 in which eight persons were injured, two of them seriously.

Paul Smith of near Delaware the driver of the car and a passenger, June Hessey of Delaware, are in Jane M. Case hospital in Delaware. Miss Hessey suffered a fractured leg and both suffered severe lacerations and possible internal injuries.

Bus passengers taken to the hospital are Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Henderson of Portsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Crabb of Erie, Pa., Mrs. Sophia Fiocco of Cleveland, and Mrs. W. Hain of Cleveland. All were released after treatment.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Lake and Winters streets. The car was practically demolished and caught fire after the collision. The bus traveled for about 100 feet after the crash and over a three foot retaining wall but did not overturn.

Smith, driver of the car, was thrown clear of the wreckage but Miss Hessey was dragged from the car by persons who had been on the bus.

The bus was enroute from Cleveland to Columbus.

New Industry Here To Make Auto Spray from War Surplus

A new manufacturing firm which will employ approximately 30 persons in the production of an insulating spray for automobiles today was moving construction equipment into the magazine area of the Scioto Ordnance plant.

The firm is the Continental Contracting Corp. of Nashville, Tenn. It will convert a war surplus chemical corps material into a spray to be known as "Tri-Sulex.," which will be sprayed on metal panels of automobiles before they are assembled. The product is to insulate the metal parts of automobiles from heat, sound and rust.

Official Comes Here

L. E. Brencamp of Dallas, Tex., general superintendent, said today the company hoped to have its plant ready for operation by May 1. When in full production about 30 persons will be employed, he said. The finished product will be sold to auto manufacturers.

Mr. Brencamp said the company had leased from the federal government the magazine area in the Scioto Ordnance plant, including approximately 80 buildings 42 by 22 feet in dimension. The small buildings will be used for storage space and a new plant building, which will contain approximately 1,800 square feet of floor space, will be constructed on a 400 by 200 foot site at the railroad siding west of the magazine area. The single story plant will be made from converted magazine buildings, Mr. Brencamp said.

Officers of Company

Machinery and equipment required for the manufacture of the new product will include mixers and various sized tanks, he said.

Officers of the company are E. L. Davis of New York City, president; Sam H. Fleming of Nashville, Tenn., secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Brencamp.

Mr. Brencamp has moved his family to Marion and said all persons employed at the plant would be from the Marion area.

Flu To Close City Schools

Classes To Suspend Tomorrow as Absentees Increase Among Pupils.

With influenza and severe colds seemingly on the increase in the schools here, the city schools will close tomorrow to reopen Monday. This announcement was made after board of education members were contacted this morning by E. E. Holt, superintendent, and decided it advisable.

One county school, Green Camp, closed today due to absence with influenza and colds, Supt. D. T. Mills office reported. The closing was due mostly to the large number of teachers absent. They will resume classes Monday.

Other schools throughout the state were reported closed with possibilities of several others suspending classes until Monday.

According to a report this morning from the office of E. E. Holt, 824 pupils were absent along with twelve teachers. This is 154 over the absence reported yesterday and is 14.2 per cent of the total enrollment.

St. Mary parochial school today reported 11 per cent of the pupils out of school due to flu and colds. This is 48 students of the school enrollment.

The closing of schools here for the day will also cancel any school activities which have been scheduled, the board decided.

Thousands of Ohio school children remained home today—some suffering from severe colds or a mild form of influenza and others barred from classrooms by health authorities in precautionary measures.

Statewide reports disclosed that five communities had suspended classes because colds and influenza had hiked absences to from five to 35 per cent of their students.

First To Close

Gallipolis, first town to close its schools, was shut down again today after resuming classes for one hour Wednesday.

Other towns where schools were closed today included Washington Township in Scioto county; Millersburg; Clyde, and Cambridge.

Norwalk's superintendent, Homer Ellis, said he would close schools there if influenza continued to spread.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, March 13 — Hollywood is throwing its biggest show of the year tonight—and it's moving right out of its home environs and into the South Side of Los Angeles to do it.

Everybody in the film colony was holding his breath today for the extra-gigantic spectacle wherein academy awards — better known as Oscars — are presented for the best acting performances, best film, best songs and other meritorious performances in the field of film production during 1946.

For the first time in history the award presentations have been thrown open to the general public, and for that reason the affair was moved to Shrine auditorium, seating 6,700.

Nominated for the best jobs as actors are Frederic March, Laurence Olivier, Larry Parks, Gregory Peck and Jimmy Stewart.

Actresses nominees are Olivia De Havilland, Celia Johnson, Jennifer Jones, Rosalind Russell and Jane Wyman. Films competing for Oscars are "The Best Years of Our Lives," "Henry V," "It's a Wonderful Life," "The Razor's Edge," and "The Yearling."

Contesting for the directorial accolade are William Wyler, David Lean, Frank Capra, Robert Siodmak and Clarence Brown. There are a number of other departments, major and minor.

About 2 a. m. (Marion time) the Oscars will be awarded to the winning actor and actress by Joan Crawford and Ray Milland, last year's winners.

The dismissal order, effective next Monday, charged Letizia with drinking from store stocks, inefficient service and inaccurate record keeping.

Slightly more than $10,000 remains to be subscribed in the 1947 campaign to raise Marion county's quota of $27,060 in the National Red Cross drive to raise $60,000,000 to carry on the work of the organization, reports made at last night's meeting showed. Clarence Shockney, campaign chairman, presided for the meeting held at campaign headquarters at 193 East Center street.

The chairman, team leaders and workers still hold to their aim of completing the drive by next Saturday and it is expected an appreciable amount will be added to the amount already subscribed by the next report meeting Friday night at headquarters. The national campaign is set for the entire month of March and if the county goal is not reached the drive will be continued throughout the remainder of the month, the chairman stated.

Reports were encouraging at last night's meeting and in the residential sections where the teams have been made up of women workers, many wards and precincts have topped their quota by appreciable amounts. Now that the women have in most cases, met their quota, many of them has set a goal of doubling it, reports indicated.

The chairman and workers are again asking subscribers to respond to the slogan "Give Where You Live." No solicitations are being made of employes in business and industry this year and all are asked to make their con-

Governor Goodland Of Wisconsin, Aged State Chief, Dies

By The Associated Press

MADISON, Wis., March 13—Wisconsin's "tough old codger", Governor Walter Samuel Goodland is dead.

Gov. Goodland

Lt. Gov. Oscar Rennebohm, will succeed Goodland in the state's top post.

Goodland, who proclaimed himself a "tough old codger" as he entered his successful campaign for a third term as governor last year was at the executive office until 4:30 p. m. yesterday afternoon.

He told his financial secretary, Frank Grass, as he left that he was "feeling fine" and added "I'll see you tomorrow." Goodland had remained at his home Tuesday, complaining of pains in his legs, but apparently had recovered yesterday.

The governor retired shortly after dinner last night and was stricken a few hours later. He died at 10:15 p. m.

Schools, Welfare, Universities Get Big Share of Ohio Budget

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—Schools, public welfare and state universities will get the lion's share of 1947-48 appropriations if the legislature approves the administration's budget recommending a record $527,000,000 for state operations.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert submitted the budget, nearly $92,000,000 above expenditures of the past two years, to a joint senate-house session last night without calling for new or increased taxes.

The governor promised the legislature, which winds up its week's work today, that he would call a special session to consider tax cuts if revenues at the end of 1947 exceed appropriations, plus reasonable reserves.

Anticipated revenue were set at $455,281,736. Highway, conservation and liquor department funds make up the difference in the overall budget total.

Bulk of the increases in recommended appropriations would come from the general revenue fund, which with reserves would provide $454,994,492, leaving $287,264 for adjustments such as salary increases for public officials called for in the pending bills.

Appropriation Requests

Requested appropriations and the increase over the previous biennium included:

Schools $160,000,000, up $46,000,000.

State universities $40,000,000, up $16,000,000.

Old age pensions $124,700,000 up $35,000,000.

Welfare department $39,433,000, up $10,800,000.

Aid for dependent children $7,812,000, up $3,500,000.

Poor relief $10,000,000 up $3,000,000.

The governor also called for biennial appropriations of $48,000,000 to local governments from sales taxes, an $11,000,000 increase, and suggested an additional $1,000,000 could be provided by surrendering the state's 50 per cent share of cigaret dealers' license revenues.

Two other legislative methods of aiding local governments were suggested. One called for the state to surrender to them the amusement admissions tax field with its potential yield of $5,400,000 during the biennium. The other would allow cities to share with the state the consumers utility tax field.

Salary Fund Asked

A $4,000,000 appropriation, which the governor said would permit salary increases of about 6 1-3 per cent for state employes on their present base pay, and $2,106,000 additional for the public employes retirement system also were requested.

Approximately $6,000,000 for "immediate adjustment" of teacher salaries and school wages was included in the $160,000,000 request for schools, which Herbert

Ohio Eliminates Banking Bill Investment Clause

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 31—The Ohio house yesterday eliminated from a banking bill a provision to permit state banks to invest up to 10 per cent of combined capital and surplus in international bank obligations.

Rep. Fred L. Hoffman (R-Hamilton), who proposed the amendment, asserted the international bank was not sufficiently stable to permit Ohio banks to invest in its securities "even though the United States is the largest stockholder."

The banking bill as passed and sent to the senate would permit state banks to invest up to half of their combined capital and surplus on their own banking premises. They now are allowed to invest 50 per cent of their capital in bank premises.

WOMAN LOSES $2,100 IN FRAUD

Confidence Game Worked on County Resident, 73, Revealed to Sheriff.

The swindling of a 73-year-old Marion county woman out of $2,100 by two men early in February came to light Tuesday night when Sheriff Roy Retterer and his deputies visited her home after the case had been reported earlier in the day by a neighbor. The woman is Mrs. Velma McKibben who lives alone on a farm east of Five Points. The circumstances are almost identical with the swindling of a Crawford county widow out of $5,000 several months ago and officers believe these to be the same men. Crawford county officials have pictures of several suspects and Mrs. McKibben will be asked to try to identify them.

Posed As Rich Benefactor

Mrs. McKibben told Sheriff Retterer that one of the men posed as a real estate man and the other as the son of a former resident of Marion who had gone to Texas and "struck it rich" and was back here to find families of some of his father's former associates and aid them financially.

The Texas man, who claimed to have some fifty or sixty thousand dollars to distribute later proposed the pooling of the combined funds of the real estate dealer, Mrs. McKibben and himself and placing it in a box, and sharing what was left after bequests had been made to his father's friends.

The one who posed as the real estate dealer, Mrs. McKibben related, had called at her home about two weeks before the day on which the two men were at her home to interest her in selling her farm. The Texas resident, she said, called at her home about five minutes after his arrival on the day of his second visit and inquired if she was Mrs. McKibben, stating that he had been informed that her husband had worked with his father and she could tell him something about his other associates. He was particularly interested, she said, in locating the family of a fellow workman of his father's, who had been killed in an accident in a local shop. During the conversation the Texan offered Mrs. McKibben and the real estate man $10 a day to help him find the families of his father's friends.

Became Acquainted Quickly

The two men became acquainted quite readily she recalled, and when the question of distributing the money to the Texas man's friends was discussed they asked her outright if she had any funds. Upon being informed that she had, they urged her to get it and join them in pooling their funds and sharing the proceeds after the bequests had been made.

The box was procured by the real estate man, who claimed to have purchased it that morning for a tool box, and who said he would return to Marion and get it. He was not gone long enough to make the trip, Mrs. McKibben recalled afterwards. When the two men departed they left the box with her but took the keys, promising to return the next day or two. Becoming suspicious, Mrs. McKibben had a key made and upon opening the box found, a large bundle of newspapers wrapped in four one-dollar bills.

Mrs. McKibben told Sheriff Retterer that after the two men became so insistant that she get her money and place it in the box, she became afraid and would have complied at any cost. The money which was in 50, 20 and 10 dollar bills, and she had planned to use it to do some painting and make other improvements at the farm.

She described the elder of the two men as about 50, well dressed and dark. The other she said was tall and slim and dark complexioned.

GROUPS TO DISCUSS HIGHWAY PROGRAM

Marion and LaRue Groups To Meet Tonight.

A delegation from the Marion Chamber of Commerce will meet with the LaRue Business Men's association at McMahan's restaurant in LaRue tonight to consider a proposal which would extend state route 95 west from LaRue to Mt. Victory in Hardin county.

The Marion delegation will include Dallas Harruff, chairman of the Chamber's highway committee, Robert T. Mason, Chamber president; Louis E. Michel, Chamber secretary, and Walter W. Johnson, Marion county engineer, and other Chamber representatives. The group will leave the Chamber offices on North State street at 5:30 p. m.

State route 95 ends at LaRue and Chamber officials and LaRue business men have pointed out that only an unimproved county road extends to Mt. Victory, which lies approximately eight miles west.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) called on congress today to support President Truman fully in combatting "Communistic aggression," but first advocated public hearing on methods of aiding Greece and Turkey.

• • •

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Heads of the state, navy and war departments discussed with the senate foreign relations committee behind closed doors today President Truman's appeal for $400,000,000 cash and indirect military help for Greece and Turkey.

War Secretary Patterson, Navy Secretary Forrestal and Acting State Secretary Acheson brought along top aides to explain details of the proposed moves which some members of congress openly declared might lead eventually to war with Russia.

To report on the military aspects of the President's proposal to help train and sustain Greek and Turkish troops, Forrestal had Vice Admiral F. P. Sherman, deputy chief of naval operations, with him.

Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall and Brig. Gen. Miles Reber accompanied Patterson.

Canvass "Whole Situation"

Sen. Vandenberg said the session was called "to canvass the whole situation," that any action might be delayed for some time.

"It is my understanding," he said, "that the house will be asked to act first on this legislation." He referred to measures to carry out Mr. Truman's proposals.

Actually, Vandenberg said, the senate group has not yet received any bills dealing with the subject.

"The plain truth is that Soviet-American relationships are at the core of this whole problem," Vandenberg declared. "Every effort should be made to terminate these controversies. This effort must occur in plain understanding of basic principles which we shall not surrender."

Must Uphold Truman

Asserting that the independence of Greece and Turkey must be preserved "not only for their own sakes but also in defense of peace and security for all of us," Vandenberg added that in this critical moment "the President's hands must be upheld."

Mr. Truman told congress grimly yesterday that armed Communists and political infiltrations threaten the "very existence" of Greece and Turkey.

He asked $400,000,000 to loan the two countries.

He sought also authority to send in American military and civilian personnel to train troops and supervise relief and rehabilitation expenditures.

But Vandenberg—while expressing belief that congress should be able "to do what the President wants by March 31"—served notice that the lawmakers must "carefully determine the methods and explore the details in so momentous a departure from our previous policies."

Although the Michigan senator obviously was guided by a desire to support the President's proposal as fully as possible in order to preserve the principle of bipartisan foreign policy, some of his Democratic and Republican colleagues made it plain that strenuous attempts will be made to write at least some restrictions into legislation to authorize loans to the two countries.

Taft Hints Restrictions

While he proposed none of these restrictions, Senator Taft (Ohio), chairman of the powerful senate Republican policy committee, mentioned some of them in a statement which left him—unlike Vandenberg—undecided on the President's plan.

Declaring that "I do not want a war with Russia," Taft said he was not fully advised whether intervention in Greece would make such a contingency more or less probable.

There could be no objection to loans to Greece for food, rehabilitation and reconstruction, he said, adding that "in the case of Turkey

EXPRESS SHIPMENTS UP IN MARION AND U. S.

Local Office Handles High Volume in Year.

...the total all-time record of ... express shipments ... the Railway Express ... throughout the United ... in 1946, the Marion, office handled 151,429 rail shipments," E. J. Salter, agent said today.

The agency's national figures showed an increase of over 24 million shipments over 1945, while locally this office had an increase of 12,324 rail shipments over the same period. October was the highest shipping month of the year at Marion with 14,418 shipments received and forwarded, Mr. Salter stated.

With the Marion population at 35,000 people and the local shipping figures for the year totaling 151,429 shipments, then the average would be about four and one-third shipments for every citizen in the city, Mr. Salter concluded.

GUILD INSTALLATION HELD

New officers were installed and Miss Lucile Foreman spoke on her visit to the United Nations conference, when the Westminster Guild of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church held a dinner meeting at Ringer's inn Tuesday night. Mrs. Phyllis Martin, retiring president, was in charge of the installation. Miss Maxine Unland sang, accompanied by Miss Ruth Kersey. Guests were Miss Foreman, Miss Unland, Mrs. Dale Weston, Mrs. Robert Griffith and Martha Lee Walker.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Eczema

NOT only babies afflicted with eczema but their mothers, also, are to be pitied. Few things can cause a child more misery and the mother more worry than this stubborn skin disorder. It is accompanied by a red, scaly rash which itches severely and keeps the youngster in a constant state of irritation.

Baby cries, whimpers, and scratches, and the mother is at her wits' end to know what to do, since scratching, which can hardly be prevented, only makes bad matters worse, causing infection as well as further irritation.

It is thought that eczema is due to oversensitivity or allergy. However, attempts to find the foods to which the child is sensitive often are unsuccessful, and hence treatment by diet alone often fails. Furthermore, dietary restrictions often result in poor nutrition in the baby.

Drs. Lemuel P. Breaux and Gibson E. Craig of Montreal have treated 12 cases of eczema in babies with a preparation known as anthalian. Just exactly how this preparation acts has not been determined. It has some slight effect in overcoming the action of a substance known as histamine which is formed in excessive quantities in the body in patients who suffer from allergy.

The drug is given by mouth. It is taken after meals and because it dissolves poorly in water, it is given in some food such as apple sauce or honey. The treatment must be carried out for a number of weeks before effects are noted.

It was found that the treatment with an anthalian, while slow in clearing up the skin rash, did lessen the itching, and thus help in avoiding the dangers of infection. It is therefore suggested that when this treatment be used, it be combined with local treatment of the skin rash, using such things as tar ointment or X-ray.

While the infants were receiving these preparations, nine of the mothers reported a great deal of reduction in itching and also stated that the children were sleeping better and eating better and also showing much less irritability.

Twelve children with what is known as atopic eczema, a skin inflammation due to an hereditary hyersensitivity, also were treated with the anthalian. These cases also showed a great deal of reduction in itching, together with improvement in sleeping and eating.

The preparation, then, while it does not cure the skin rash of eczema appears to be valuable in relieving the symptoms, and, together with local treatment of the skin, helps in producing a cure. Of course, the treatment must always be carried out under the directions of a physician.

Song and Worn Guitar Link Nassau's 2 Worlds

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, March 13—There are two worlds in old Nassau—one block and two centuries apart—and all that links them is song and a worn guitar.

The world of today lies along Bay street, where rich visitors from New York and London and Montreal drive by in the cushioned comfort of imported cars, society ladies shop in expensive stores for doeskin gloves and fine British woolens, and duty-free Scotch is cheap at $5 a bottle. The world of yesterday is on the native wharf a block away, where weathered sloops from the "out islands" come to market, guided by the timeless compass of all seamen, the sun by day, the stars by night.

Hal Boyle

Scores of small craft, paint-blistered, sails furled, ride at anchor after voyaging hundreds of miles across blue seas to bring cargoes of island produce and livestock—green tomatoes, mangoes and pineapples, bleating sheep and squealing pigs.

Outlasts Man Nature

This is the Bahamian life that has outlasted pirate raids and international wars, hurricane and tidal wave.

Each tiny boat is an ambassador for half a dozen families scattered in the islands, carrying the coconut harvest of one, the mournful calf sent by another. The captain will get the best price he can, and bring back cheap yards of dress material, sacks of thick-grained salt, kegs of nails, sugar, canned goods — and spicy Nassau gossip.

White men and black men come in the boats, and many bring their ladies for an exciting day in the big city of the Bahamas (population 30,000). The women primp and fuss with their hair, and go ashore wearing their best cotton frocks, shaded by quaint spreading straw hats. They spend hours exploring the long deep shelves burdened with cheap bolts of cloth, nervously fingering them over and over before making the terrible decision which to buy.

Sailors Crowd Into Bars

The sailors crowd into the wharf bars to buy rum at 12 cents a shot or shoot the works on Haitian taffia — 40 cents a bottle. Voices babble above the shrill squeal of a pig getting the knife across his throat in the long low butchering shed. Black old crones patiently sit waiting for some one to buy the straw baskets plaited through many days.

A drunken native with bloodshot eyes wabbles unnoticed through the crowd chanting to himself:

"Ah'll knock ebber man down. Gon' knock down ebber man in duh whole worl'."

He stares befuddled at a pile of discarded rum bottles. The boatmen will buy them for a penny apiece and sail all the way to Haiti to sell them for two cents. A huge native policeman rides by on his bicycle, and the drunk mutters into silence.

The clatter on the market place dies. The sun sinks, and the tropic night swiftly wipes the red wound from the sky. Fires light up in the open charcoal burners on the boats, and strips of conch flesh are laid on the rusted broilers.

A boatman picks up an old guitar and thrums it softly. Soft Bahamian voices join in the old island tunes, and laughter floats inward.

It is then the moneyed tourists like to come down to the wharf and listen to the song and the guitar—and are linked for a moment with the strange out islanders for whom life is a sea enchantment and poverty a long adventure.

While the song lasts the two worlds of Nassau are one.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: "Whom ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you." Acts 17:23.

* * *

With few exceptions, most people outside of the church are not atheists. The great majority down deep in their hearts are not as religious as church members. They respond to the appeal for a "March of Dimes;" they bow in prayer when life seems critical; they refuse to believe that a funeral means the end of the life of a friend. The trouble with their religion is that it is vague, foggy, sentimental. It needs the vitality, the reality, the foundation, the direction, the reality which Jesus Christ alone can impart. Like the men of Athens they have a god—but he's a vague, unknown affair—a superstition. They need a God with a face. This face of God can be found in Jesus Christ, the Nazarene, the Savior and the Lord of mankind.

REV. ELDRED JOHNSTON,
Pastor, Central Christian Church.

Spring Pain To Postal Workers As Chain Letter Fad Revives

These fine spring days may mean daffodils and violets to some folks but to Postmaster Homer D. Cole and his staff they are bringing one big headache—chain letters. "The springtime seems to bring a wave of them," the postmaster believes.

During the last 10 days a number of the chain letters have been received in the mails, some written on postal cards, others in letters. All have been mailed either in the city or on rural routes and all are unsigned. This time the chain is a prayer which "must go around the world," and the direst of misfortune is in store for the one breaking the chain. One person, so the letter states, ignored the prayer and met death and in a period of days calamity befell another of the family.

Postmaster Cole has had a number of complaints from receivers of the "chain" letters asking if something can be done to stop the practice. The letters disturb some people, irritate others and some just ignore them, Mr. Cole says. The thing to do is to ignore them, he says.

Postal authorities are investigating and any one found sending these chain letters will have to answer to government officials as the practice is a federal offense. Anyone knowing senders of the chain letters is asked to aid in putting a stop to the "wave" by reporting them to postal authorities. All information will be held in strict confidence and will be greatly appreciated, the postmaster states.

The Sparring Begins

SOME writers refer to the conference presently going on in Moscow as "negotiations," but, based on Russia's past performance they will not be that. In negotiations you give a little take a little; make concessions on some points, hold for and receive concessions on others. So far, with Russia at the conference table, you either yield or you don't yield, period.

The present Moscow conversations have not gone far enough to give any firm indication of whether there has been any change in the Soviet line. Molotov's smile seems just as beautiful as ever, and the news and radio correspondents —those who were lucky enough to get in—find they are not having censor trouble.

Ostensibly the prime item on the agenda was the character of the Germany that is to emerge in postwar Europe. Instead, Molotov's opening gambit brought up the enormously complicated question of China. Indications are that General Marshall will not allow the China issue to be discussed unless Chinese representatives are called to the conference.

Russia may have a sincere desire to settle the China difficulties, or it could be bringing them up as an obfuscatory tactic. There's a good chance that it is the latter, for Molotov on his past performances has won the medal of Obfuscator First Class with Oak Leaf Cluster.

Sweet Pickings

NEWS from the maple sirup country is that this year's supply will sell at $5 a gallon, with farmers unable to meet a fraction of the demand. In a good season, as it appears this one will be, a grove of 1,600 trees will yield 600 gallons of sirup.

A stand of sugar-producing trees is called a sugar bush. With sirup at $5 a gallon, it might better be called a heavy-sugar bush.

I.O.U.'s Don't Pay Bills

LAST WEEK'S proposal by Senator Russell of Georgia that the British Empire become part of the United State brought forth laughter in the United States and in England in indignant rejoinder that no such step was necessary to shore up British economy.

Actually, in some future year the senator's proposal may not seem so ridiculous after all. It is nothing new with the "Union Now" and "One World" advocates. But that day, isn't here yet.

Among the indignant rejoinders from England was that of the London Times, which reminded the senator that the southern states still owe Great Britain $244,000,000 advanced during the Civil war. If the southerners would ante up, the Times said, England's financial troubles would be eased.

England's Confederate adventure was just one of many instances when her foreign undertakings came to a bad end. She is like a poker player with a pocket full of worthless I. O. U.'s. If all the uncollectible debts she has in the far corners of the world could be liquidated, she would be on Easy Street today.

Hardly Statehood Material

INTRODUCTION of a bill in congress to invite Iceland to become a state has caused precious little commotion for the simple reason that no one is taking it seriously, least of all, probably, the Icelanders.

Iceland would indeed be a wallflower in the sisterhood of states. Assuming that the college at Reykjavik became Iceland State university, would it be able to hold its own on the football field against, say, Michigan or Indiana, or even Bates or Middlebury? Not likely. A large catalog of racial and cultural differences could be drawn up.

Congressman Gearheart of California, who introduced the bill, says such action is necessary "with Russia extending herself in all directions and England and France clinging tenaciously to their respective empires."

If the way to halt Russian expansion is to invite all lands at which the Soviet are casting a covetous eye to become states, we shall soon be accused ourselves of having an expansionist policy.

CAN'T RESIST

Our sympathies lie with the head-hunters of Assam who can't seem to whip that humiliating and expensive, habit. Trouble is, as we understand it, the boys keep insisting they can take it or leave it alone. You know the sort of thing—just one head before dinner. But one leads to another, and about 10 o'clock they've got a neckful and are phoning the little woman that they won't be home.—Kansas City Star.

PLENTY OF LATITUDE

In India, a new book discloses, marriages are entered into for a stipulated length of time, set by the bridegroom. Or, as the insurance men would put it, there is a choice of 20-pay, 30-pay or straight wife.—Kansas City Star.

MUST DUEL IN COMFORT NOW

The first postwar duel in Paris had to be called off because of cold weather. That must give some of those old vikings up in Valhalla a good laugh.—Washington Star.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Figures on Truman Popularity Questioned.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 12 —The Gallup poll has galloped out with the sensational conclusion Mr. Truman has 51 per cent of the vote today, four months after the complete and unexpected Republican congressional victory. I doubt it. You can obtain nearly the answer you want by the way you ask questions. But my specific reason, this time, is that my political agents, who have been just as good as Gallup in the past, report from several key states (including the weathervane Kentucky and the Democratic Florida) that Mr. Truman is less popular today than at election time. The public seems to think the President has entered upon an obstructionist campaign with the labor unions to defeat the results of the election in congressional legislation.

In the interim since election, Mr. Truman has not taken any stand publicly which has won him a swing of acclaim. In international affairs also he was doing all right, avoiding controversy, until he recently started edging up to an indefinite big lending policy to European nations. Good reason for doubt exists as to whether this will add to his popularity, or hurt it. Now the people, as I meet them in my travels, do not object to loans abroad on a basis of need. They do almost unanimously doubt if Mr. Truman is thinking very wisely along this line.

State Dept. Attitude

For instance: State department officials have openly told congress we should ship $25,000,000 more goods to Soviet Russia while admitting in the same breath that Russia had not even answered four requests to add up the $11,260,000,000 of wartime lend lease. These officials took the wholly unreasonable ground that our agreement had been made in good faith, and we should maintain $25,000,000 more of good faith, while Russia had abandoned hers. This is the same as if you, a lender, insisted on giving more money to a man in debt to you, who not only did not pay you, but had silently ignored your last four requests to come in and talk the matter over. It does not make sense.

Now if the state department or Mr. Truman proposed that by lending the money we could get something, the loans might be viewed with more popular support. Similarly in Greece, Mr. Truman has proposed that we furnish the money, but that the British continue to run things—which proposal does not intend to improve our position in any way. The administration plainly has not gone into the matter with a view of getting something for its money.

Whatever increase in popularity may truly have come to Mr. Truman is due to failure of the Republicans to interpret their November victory accurately. They have ventured forth to make some political hay for themselves in the Bilbo, Lilienthal and other matters, whereas they already had all the hay they needed. They had already won the country by their stand against the Truman policies. They had been particularly bold against the Truman labor policies in their Case bill, against continued spending, taxes, etc., but for some reason not imaginable, they started out to win the country after having won it, and began casting about for support in the class pressure groups, even the unions.

Doesn't Meet Demand

Such leadership was hardly what the election result demanded. A strong assumption of dictatorship, ignoring politics entirely, would have fit the requirement.

The Republicans currently are inclined to blame their troubles on differences within the party. They can not even get agreement among themselves as to whether budget reduction or tax reduction should come first, or how much of either. Well, this is simply due to their original failure to interpret the election result properly, and to furnish the country what it asked. They made their chance of furnishing it more remote by getting the pressure groups in (they thought they were winning them over, but the groups, I suspect, calculated on inserting a small unnoticeable monkey wrench in the Republican machine). Labor union strategy particularly is based on preventing the results of the election from being fulfilled, and they have been aided in their efforts by the kindly attitude of the Republicans toward them.

I asked my Washington agents on the scene what the politicos up there thought the supposedly new Truman popularity was based on. They replied that perhaps he had not been doing anything much, but he had not done anything wrong. There just seemed to be a better feeling about his way of handling things.

Frankly I think the Republican leadership has just been outwitted by the Democratic (CIO? union?) crowd which is rather well experienced in the game of political scuttling.

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

They Have Profited—But Not By Experience

So many freshmen congressmen are being mistaken for page boys that, beginning April 1, the latter will be required to wear uniforms.

Pending this positive means of identification, those in doubt can rely on the usually accepted rule of thumb: If the party in question seems to know what he's doing, he must be a page boy.

Few people realize it, but there are more young men in congress than there were in Air Corps colonelcies. They're doing a good job too, although it is a little inconvenient, having to adjourn every afternoon in time for the Lone Ranger broadcasts.

With the accent on youth becoming ever more pronounced in both houses, sooner or later the question is bound to arise: Does congressional immunity apply to compulsory school attendance laws?

Yessir, youth is being served—in both the house and senate restaurants.

And a good thing it is too, if you ask me. The only thing our oldline politicians have learned from experience is that it's impossible to learn from experience.

Washington Problems Bigger

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WHILE congress and the American people are faced with the need to make decisions which are as grave and as obscure as any in the history of American foreign policy, what is happening in Moscow? Secretary Marshall has become involved with Foreign Minister Molotov, just like Secretary Byrnes before him, in a complicated wrangle about the agenda and about the details of the military occupation of Germany.

No doubt the questions are important on which the foreign ministers are once more stubbornly engaged—the rate and degree of militarization, the displaced persons camps, the size of the occupation forces, and the prisoners of war. But if Secretary Marshall must spend his time and his energy debating questions of this sort, if these questions cannot be dealt with by deputies and subordinates, when, how and by whom are the crucial tasks of our rapidly developing foreign policy to be examined, to be planned, to be explained, and to be administered?

Washington Problems

The decisions which have to be taken here in Washington transcend altogether those which Molotov is raising and Secretary Marshall is allowing himself to be persuaded—by Byrnes' old team—that he must deal with.

Here in Washington the decisions call for an estimate of how the total military and financial resources, that can be made available, may most effectively be applied to meet demands which arise from every quarter of the globe.

Never was it so necessary to budget our means and our commitments. Never was it so necessary to define our commitments by a unified strategical conception as to where our available power, prestige, money and experness, which are not unlimited, can be invested with the best prospect of achieving the best that is judged to be possible.

Congress cannot do this. It can be done only by the combined and continuing study and consideration of the highest responsible officials of the state department, the armed services, the chief financial and economic departments of the government.

It is true that Byrnes had promised to go to Moscow and to continue with Molotov and Bevin the diplomatic trench warfare which they carried on over the minor treaties while the situation throughout the rest of the world deteriorated. But when Byrnes made that promise, which Marshall has felt constrained to honor, he did not know that the United States would be faced with the issues which now face it.

Perhaps if we had an ambassador in London, and if British-American diplomacy had been at the high level of real communication which existed during the war, the administration here would have seen to it that so great a decision did not have to be taken so suddenly, and with the secretary of state debating secondary questions with Molotov in Moscow.

Futile Procedure

A case could be made, even at this time, for Secretary Marshall's presence in Moscow if his time and energy were devoted to a discussion with Stalin and the heads of the Soviet government of the great issues which have to be decided now in Washington. But no case, it seems to me, can be made for a stubborn and tedious negotiation with Molotov, which represents and continues the lamentable history of what it is gross flattery to call peace-making.

If that is the only way we can negotiate with the Soviet government, then men—men with constitutions of iron and the patience of Job—should be specially selected for it, and delegated to the task, it being understood that they can afford to devote their whole time to it, because they have no other and greater responsibilities.

OLD FAITHFUL

Preparations for Moscow

By RAYMOND MOLEY

This is the first of a series of three on reparations, the major problem in the current Moscow conference. It is based on information not generally published and on expert advice from people intimately familiar with European economic affairs.

* * *

DESPITE the low opinion of phychiatrists entertained by the Reverend Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, it might be well to have a few in attendance at the Moscow deliberations. For the representatives of four great nations are meeting to discuss reparations in terms which will have only the remotest relation to reality. This is not the first of such futile bandying of words. It all began at Yalta and has passed through many meetings since. The economic facts in the past two years have made a mockery of almost everything that has been said and practically every hard agreement that has been reached.

For reparations are delusions. Wars are paid for by those who fight. This principle applies to winners and losers alike. The loser sometimes must pay more—to itself. But no loser can compensate a winner for what he has spent and suffered.

In this case, Russia is both a winner and loser. For a part of the period after June, 1941, she lost, suffered invasion, bled and burned. Only for a little while was Russia victorious. And as she turns for compensation for all that is lost, she meets frustration—not man-made, but arising from the immutable laws of nature and economics

Reason Not Clear

The reason this has not been clear to the men who have tried to make peace is that they are mostly politicians. And politicians are a superstitious lot. Their talk is artificial, it is not, as in the case of scientists, factual. It is part exhortation, part dialectic and, in economic matters, mostly uninformed.

The Russians are largely responsible for this obfuscation, for all those who run things there are bred-in-the-bone politicians. Only Stalin occasionally rises above the murk of Marxian dialectics.

A first-class economist could explain why, in the long run, Germany cannot be made to pay for more than a tiny part of the war. But economists are hampered by their language and they work under the direction of politicians. By the time they have got the facts into the heads of their political masters, the facts have changed.

Meanwhile, Europe, hungry and cold, waits for peace. And unless miracles of understanding take place of Moscow, it must wait some more. War is extremely improbable, because there is still enough sense in Russia and the United States to realize that we cannot settle one war by piling another on top of it.

It may be a rash venture, but it is my purpose in this and a few succeeding columns to point up some of the reasons why all this quest for reparations is a delusion, born of the past and cherished by politicians in all countries.

First Suggestion

The first concrete suggestion on reparations came out of Russia three and a half years ago. It appeared in a little-noted dispatch outlining a plan devised by one Eugene Varga, an economist in the Soviet government. His proposals were an advance over those which were imposed with such futility after World War I, because they discarded money reparations and substituted reparations "in kind"—in equipment, in current production and in manpower. But with true Soviet dogmatism, the Varga proposals fixed a specific amount—the equivalent of $10,000,000,000 for Russia.

That $10,000,000,000 has monotonously recurred in every conference since, like the theme song of a musical comedy.

At Yalta, the idea of reparations "in kind" was accepted. The Soviets proposed $20,000,000,000 in all—$10,000,000,000 for Russia. Roosevelt accepted the figures only as a basis for discussion. Churchill prevented the figures from being included in the statement of agreement. The idea of reparations in manpower was vaguely agreed to by Roosevelt, but there were no specifications.

At Moscow in 1945, a meeting of the new allied commission on reparations was held, and some effort was made to establish principles

At Potsdam, reparations were established on a zonal basis. Provision was made for the delivery to Russia of plant equipment from all zones. But a proviso was made for the delivery of foods and raw materials from the eastern to the western zone. Now, after 20 months, the Potsdam agreement stands only "in principle."

The reasons why it has not worked out and why it will not work out will be presented in the next column.

Tomato Scare

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Tomato blight, a disease that destroyed nearly one quarter of the nation's tomatoes last year, is reported by a chemical company (Rohm & Haas) investigator to be starting out worse this year than last.

The money loss last year was between forty and fifty million dollars. This blight is a fungus, which appears on the under side of leaves, and blackens the tomatoes.

Tomatoes have had the blight for many years, but in mild form. It apparently is the same blackening that is common on potatoes, and perhaps it passes from potatoes to tomatoes. In tomatoes it appears late in growth and is called late blight.

George D. Ruehle, of the University of Florida agricultural experiment station, reports that the epidemic of last year started in Florida and eventually involved all areas east of the Mississippi.

Mr. Ruehle says the crop losses can be avoided by use of dithane plus zinc sulfate and hydrated lime. This he says is the best remedy in Florida.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Newspaper Readers And the Court

TOM.—Well, have you read that Supreme Court decision in the coal case through yet?

Dick.—Within the looser meaning of the term "read," yes. How about you?

Tom.—I think I am warranted in replying (Compers versus Bucks Stove) in the affirmative.

Dick.—What did you think of it?

Tom.—I concurred here and there and dissented here and there.

Dick.—How many dissents and how many concurrences?

Tom.—I think I came out even.

* * *

Dick.—Do you find yourself going along with Vinson, Frankfurter, Reed, Burton, Black, Jackson and Douglas or with Murphy and Rutledge?

Tom.—The way I figure it out I am with Vinson, Reed, Burton, and Douglas minus Frankfurter's separate opinion and Jackson's lack of 100 per cent concurrence. How about you?

Dick.—I go along with Murphy and Rutledge plus 20 per cent of Frankfurter and 16 per cent of Jackson but minus Vinson, Reed, Burton and Douglas.

Tom.—Why is it impossible for the highest court in the land to come to an agreement in matters of law?

Dick.—It is illegal (Minsky versus National Hook & Eye Corp) and contrary to pupic policy. (Nottingham versus Fudge.)

* * *

Tom.—Getting down to hard facts, how were you fixed for coal this winter?

Dick.—I ordered ten tons but got four. One of my coal dealers dissented. How did you do?

Tom.—I lived in an apartment. It was pretty cold. The landlord, janitor and furnace operator took my petition for more heat under advisement. The janitor and furnace man decided in my favor, but the landlord dissented.

(Fuddlesby versus National Refrigeration).

Dick.—You mean the landlord didn't want you to have any heat?

Tom.—Oh, not quite that. He concurred with the janitor and furnace man in believing I was entitled to freedom from pneumonia (Socket versus McCauley), but insisted on writing a separate opinion in which he held (McGinty versus Rosenbaum) that Congress plainly intended that all apartment dwellers should contribute a little wood and charcoal.

Dick.—What did you do?

Tom.—We finally agreed to bring in my doctor for an opinion. By that time both legs were frozen from the hips down.

Dick.—Did you finally win?

Tom.—No. The doctor divided his opinion into three equal parts and gave one part to me, one to the landlord and one to the furnace man and janitor. It left everything as it was, but I felt a lot better.

Dick.—How so?

Tom.—They let me take all the opinions, and the whites of two eggs, stir rapidly, shake well and then read from left to right, standing on my head. It helped clarify things!

Mrs. Cobb says Ty is worth seven million dollars and she wants $5,000 a month. If Ty has that much money, students of his speed on the bases will agree that he got it on a sliding scale.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: Just as I sat down to write this letter the wind blew in an attic window and I had to do an on-the-spot repair job with a piece of tin. Luck was with me. The window blew half way across the attic and only one of the four panes broke. The way the wind was blowing we were lucky the roof didn't go with it.

While I was up there being impressed with the power of the wind when it cuts loose, I got to thinking about propaganda, which is the hot wind that men have to worry about. It came to me that propaganda doesn't mean anything until it blows in a window.

If you've ever been in a real windstorm, you know that the damage comes from weakness in the buildings that are damaged. The worst thing that can happen is for the wind to get inside. If a door blows in, or a window, then the pressure builds up and lifts the roof or knocks out a wall. As long as the building holds together, provided it's anchored to a good foundation, nothing happens.

I've read a couple of pieces lately about the way propaganda has upset people so badly they don't know any more whether they're afoot or on horseback. I know a couple of these victims personally. They talk to me in the store. The wind has blown in their attic windows. They're full of air. It's no use talking to them.

I hate to say it, nephew, but newspapers and radios shouldn't be trusted in the hands of people with panes of glass missing in their attic, or not bolted tight to their basement foundation. Don't get excited, I know what you're going to say, but I don't trust some people with my watch and there are some I don't trust with my liberty. Their attic windows are gone. When the big wind rises, they're a menace.

They rode with the Klan when that was the big wind. They went money-nutty in the Coolidge boom. When the boom busted, they were wide open to the big wind about the More Abundant Life. When that didn't materialize they blamed everything on Hitler. When Hitler was gone—and Tojo—they started to blame everything on the OPA, Stalin, the labor unions, the fascists, or name your pet prejudice.

Those people are itching to lift the roof about something. They have no more stability than a tent in a tornado. They aren't anchored to anything or buttoned up solid. All that anyone needs to do to stir them up is yell "Whoooosh" and they're off in a cloud of misrepresentations. Who would ever have thought when I went up to the attic to fix that window that I could preach a sermon about it?

Your aunt's cold is better, though she's still sniffling. I didn't catch it and don't know why. I suppose I am waiting to catch something more serious. Give my regards to the family. You can come to see us any time, now that the cook is up and around.

In the receiving line were the president, Mrs. C. M. Howser, Mrs. R. A. Anderson, vice president, Mrs. E. E. Smith, recording secretary, Mrs. J. H. Denman, corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. W. Providing a musical background for the afternoon was piano music by Mrs. O. D. Anderson, Mrs. C. W. Davis and Mrs. Harry T. Williams, members of the club.

In the dining room where the members presided at various periods, the table held a tiered anniversary cake in white and gold and was lighted with gold candles tied with matching ribbons. Appointments were in gold and the refreshments included cake decorated with anniversary motifs. The guests registered in a guest book, a gift from the Quest club members.

Arrangements for the tea were in charge of the social committee including Mrs. J. Edwin Probst, Mrs. Wilbur H. Symes, Mrs. C. W. Davis, Mrs. Dwight Mahaffey and Mrs. Stewart Vermillion.

NEW BARGAIN IN ODD LIQUOR BRANDS SEEN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—Another bargain sale of slow-moving stock—130,000 cases of cordials, plus some gins and brandies—was indicated today by State Liquor Director Stanley B. Cofall as he released the liquor department's annual report showing a record inventory of $36,587,807 worth of stock on Dec. 31 1946.

The inventory was five and a half million over the 1945 Total of $30,801,112.

Cofall said he and other department officials would confer on means of cutting down the inventory and added they were "working toward" a bargain sale such as cleared the department of thousands of dollars worth of Victoria brandy last year. The Victoria, purchased during the wartime whisky shortage, was rebottled under the name of Prince George and sold at a loss of more than $1,000,000.

Despite the big inventory, Cofall said, the state had a net profit of $14,821,450, as compared with $12,568,246 in 1945 and the record $14,822,802 in 1944.

Gallonage taxes added $9,252,301 in state revenue last year, compared wih $7,642,063 in 1945.

Gross revenue was $139,326,958, against $116,292,087 in 1945.

LABOR PRESSURE ON N. Y. POLICE CHARGED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Harold Ahlers, New York produce wholesaler, told the house labor committee today that New York City police are "restrained very definitely" from protecting the firm in a row with a labor union. "Where the pressure comes from is hard to say," he added.

He declared, too, that the cost of living, including the price of butter have been held up by union activity.

Ahlers is president of Carl Ahlers, Inc.

He testified that Local 202 of the AFL Teamsters union has picketed and threatened the firm, its customers, and suppliers since September, 1945, although "none of our men is a member of any union and does not desire to be."

"The police themselves have been very good," he said. "The local precincts have been very good. They have gone out of their way to keep things quiet, but they are restrained very definitely."

He said the company got a city marshal to go to a dock when the company wanted to pick up some goods but that the marshal got a phone call from the mayor's office. He added:

"He got all jittery and was afraid to do his duty. He was scared stiff."

He said the sheriff had the "same experience" and was "scared out" when "we had a little dispute with a warehouse."

The witness did not say when these events took place.

Rep. Hartley (R-NJ), chairman of the committee, had declared earlier he would "get tough if necessary" with what he called "strong arm stuff" by some labor unions.

Hartley made the statement while discussing an anonymous telephone threat to Rep. Kearns (R-Pa), a labor committee member, demanding that the Pennsylvanian change his ideas about labor.

"In view of all the difficulties and sluggings and shooting we've been having," Hartley told reporters, "anything might happen."

"I'm not going to start wearing a bullet proof vest or anything, but if anybody is going to get tough, I'm prepared to get tough myself if necessary."

He was no more specific than that. But he already has asked the justice department to order an FBI investigation of the Kearns threat and the slaying of George P. McNear Jr., president of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad.

Keep Rent Curbs One More Year, Solon Says

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) proposed today extension of rent controls until next March 1 under a new rent adjustment and decontrol board.

He said he worked his bill out with Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the senate G.O.P. policy committee and will offer it as a substitute for othre rent control legislation bottled up in the senate banking commitete.

McCarthy said he also will introduce with Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) a bill to wipe out sugar rationing and continue price control under the secretary of agriculture instead of OPA.

He explained his rent bill would provide no general increase in ceilings, but would authorize the proposed new control agency to make blanket adjustments in any of the 649 rent areas set up by OPA.

SNYDER OPPOSES ANY 1947 PAY TAX CUT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder told the Republican-controlled congress today the Truman administration is flatly against any income tax reduction this year.

He said the administration specifically opposes granting—now or any other time—a proposed 20 per cent "across the board" tax cut on incomes up to $303,000 a year.

The secretary was the first witness at hearings by the house ways and means committee on a bill by Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) to provide the straight 20 per cent cut. Knutson is chairman of the committee.

Snyder said he believes "substantial" tax cuts can be made in the future.

If congress is determined to cut taxes this year, he said, it should give greater benefits to the taxpayers with small incomes.

"The (20 per cent) bill would give too little reduction to lower incomes and relatively too much to higher incomes," Snyder said.

He declared the flat one-fifth slash would be "not significant" to low income groups, but would

"Wipe out most of the wartime increase in taxes on very large incomes, leave taxes on other incomes much higher than before the war."

Attlee Wins Solid Vote of Confidence

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13 — Prime Minister Attlee won a solid vote of confidence in the house of commons last night after calling for "full cooperation of industry" with the labor government in Britain's fight for economic survival.

The Labor party's big majority crushed—374 to 198—Conservative Winston Churchill's demand for a "no confidence" vote, climax to three days of searching debate on the government's post-war recovery policy.

Then, by a vote of 371 to 204, the house agreed to "support the government in all practical measures" for reconstruction as outlined in a recent white paper —a rigorous program that calls for continued food rationing, electricity and coal restrictions and determined efforts to increase production.

Future of U. S. Rails Called Political Issue

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, March 13—Declaring that government ownership of railroads might come through political pressure or bankruptcy of the companies Robert E. Woodruff, president of the Erie railroad, said today the "future of rail transportation in this country is political."

"We are handicapped by discriminatory laws," the Cleveland man told a meeting of the Allegheny regional advisory board, an organization of shippers and receivers from western Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland.

"There is a great hue and cry for modernization and improved service, both passenger and freight. The railroads want to provide these improvements but they can be made only if the railroads have sufficient earnings to finance them," Woorduff said.

Senator Expects Debate On Lilienthal Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) predicted today the David E. Lilienthal confirmation debate will begin tomorrow despite a senate vote to go to work on the portal pay bill.

The portal bill backers were equally positive, however, that the senate meant what it said at the end of a somewhat confusing session last night.

Hickenlooper is chairman of the committee which recommended Lilienthal's confirmation as chairman of the atomic energy commission by an 8 to 1 vote, with Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) dissenting.

"We'll take up the Lilienthal matter Friday," the chairman told a reporter, making no reservations.

House Rejects Bid To Send Russia Machinery

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—Chairman Taber (R-NY) said today the house appropriations committee has rejected a state department request for authority to send $25,000,000 worth of oil refining equipment to Russia.

The senate appropriations committee turned down the request earlier.

"We can't do such a thing: that's appeasement," Taber told reporters.

The chairman said the equipment, mostly pipelines, was obtained for shipment to Russia under lend-lease agreement but had not been transported prior to last Dec. 31.

Greece, Turkey, Britain All Hail Truman Message

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 13—Britain today officially welcomed President Truman's declaration on Greece and Turkey, and the President's recommendations to congress were received in Greek and Turkish official circles here with expressions ranging from "profound satisfaction" to "extreme joy."

A British foreign office spokesman told a crowded news conference:

"The British government welcomes Mr. Truman's statement to congress. The views he expressed on the question of governments being imposed on sovereign states in Europe are very much in accord with our own views. And, on a number of occasions, we have conveyed those beliefs to certain governments whose elections have not been carried out in line with their pledges."

In Istanbul, Premier Recep Peker of Turkey said the President's "American and Human speech" indicated the United States had awakened to the world situation. The premier said he believed the speech reflected American public opinion in a day when security was not longer a local problem.

Eddy Gilmore, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Moscow, said that when the Russians did speak "it is to be expected that President Truman's request for $400,000,000 to aid Greece and Turkey will be branded here as United States interference in the internal affairs of other nations."

Communist circles in Greece expressed no pleasure at the proposal and London's Communist Daily Worker declared flatly that the real purpose of the United States "is to save the tottering rulers of Greece and the dictators of Turkey and to drive back the advancing forces of democracy."

The British foreign office, however, welcomed the President's speech. Other British government quarters expressed "great appreciation" for the "generous offer" and also for Mr. Truman's "wise recognition of the wider issues involved in the present Greek situation."

In Athens, Constantin Tsaldaris, the Greece foreign minister, dispatched a message to President Truman in which he said:

"With a feeling of true relief the Greeks heard your momentous message to the American people and congress. At this historic hour I recollect with profound emotion our personal contact in December last and the assurances which you were kind enough to give when, on Greece's behalf, I laid before you her great problem.

"Those assurances of yours are now becoming reality. And the Greek people, who had been so sorely tried, can look forward to a better future, which they are entitled to."

apparently we are merely asked to finance the army."

"If we assume this special position in Greece and Turkey," the Ohio senator continued, we can hardly longer reasonably object to the Russians continuing their domination in Poland, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria."

Observing that the loans "accept the policy of dividing the world into zones of political influence—Communist and anti-Communist," Taft said "perhaps there is no other course."

Truman Takes Sun At Key West Naval Base

By The Associated Press

Having called upon the nation to assist "free peoples" to work out their own destinies in the face of totalitarian and Communist encroachment, he awaited the reaction of Moscow and other capitals to yesterday's blunt speech to congress.

CLUES TO RAIL HEAD'S SLAYER BELIEVED FOUND

Run Tests On Glove Picked Up Near Murder Scene.

By The Associated Press

PEORIA, Ill., March 13—Police today awaited reports from the state criminal identification laboratories of tests which they said may give them clues in their investigation of the ambush slaying of George P. McNear Jr., president of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad.

The tests were made of a man's glove found alongside a tree about 75 feet from where the 55 year old rail chief was shot down as he walked near his home Monday night. Fred Nussbaum, chief of detectives, also said that police took plaster impressions of a toe and heel print found near the tree.

Meanwhile, police held for questioning and without formal charge, Roy Daily, 36, a former chief guard of the strikebound railroad. Daily was one of four guards who were acquitted on manslaughter charges in connection with the fatal fight between guards and pickets at Gridley, Ill., in February, 1946

By The Associated Press

CAZENOVIA, N. Y., March 13—A 35-year-old woman leaper to her death and more than 100 students and teachers fled or were helped to safety today when fire gutted two buildings of Cazenovia Junior college.

One student, Phyllis Watson, Rochester, N. Y., freshman, had not been accounted for hours after the blaze was extinguished and two women employes were injured in leaps.

Damage was estimated by Mayor Rollin H. Kehler at $300,000.

The 122-year-old school, located in central New York 20 miles southeast of Syracuse, changed from a co-educational institution to a girl's school in 1942.

Mrs. Clarence Funk, Erieville, N. Y., a housekeeper, was killed when she jumped from the third floor of fire-swept Callanan hall, a four-story dormitory. The other structure damaged was Centennial building, also a four-story dormitory.

Dearest "Husband" and "Daddy"
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same
So fondly loved—and deeply mourned,
Heart of my heart—I miss you so
Often (dearest) husband my tears will flow,
Dimming your picture before my eyes
But never the one in my heart that lies.
But nothing can ever take away
The one a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps you near.
For "thoughts" return to scenes long past,
Time rolls on but memories last

Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. Albert Davis and children Johnnie, Gladys, Paul Harry and only brother, John W Davis of Delaware, O.

Ferguson Wins Third Inning of Farm Tilt

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—The score today:

Farnsworth's farmers $23,600, Ferguson's auditors $1,580.

However, Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, the only elected Democrat in the capitol, was disclosed today to have won the third inning of the ball game between his office and that of State Agriculture Director Frank N. Farnsworth, a Republican.

Ferguson's inquiry into Farnsworth's effort to give his new assistant chief of plant industry $6,000 base salary, or $6,780 with legislative increases, resulted at least in reduction of the base to $5,220 as finally approved by the civil service commission. This $780 cut for John Barringer of Painesville, on top of the $800 lopped off of the original $6,800 promised for Edwin J. Bath, assistant to Farnsworth and executive secretary to a proposed recreated and enlarged state agriculture board, gave Ferguson his score.

Claims must be filed by July 1 even though in some cases amputee veterans may have to wait longer for delivery of their vehicles, VA officials said To date, 1,627 amputee veterans in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky have been certified as eligible to obtain vehicles at government expense, including 732 in Ohio

The program to furnish automobiles or other conveyances to World War II veterans who lost, or lost the use of one or both legs went into operation last September The cost of each vehicle is limited to $1,600, including any special equipment or attachments necessary to enable the veteran to operate it

VA Hospital Admissions Show Increase for 1946

Veterans Administration today reported a total of 458,749 admissions of veteran-patients to VA and VA contract hospitals during the calendar year 1946, an increase of 174,342 or 61 3 per cent over calendar year 1945 The greatest number of admissions—381,619 or 83 19 per cent of the total—were general medical and surgical patients Next were neuropsychiatric patients, amounting to 11 77 per cent of the total, or 53,981 admissions Smallest group was tuberculosis patients who numbered 19,809, or 4 27 per cent of the total

Slightly less than 50 per cent of the total number of neuropsychiatric admissions, or 26,509 out of 53,981, were classified as psychotic cases The remaining 27,472 were veterans with neuropsychiatric disorders other than psychosis, such as psychoneurotics, character and behavior disorders and organic conditions of the nervous system. During the fiscal year 1946, neuropsychiatric patients discharged from hospitals had an average stay of 197 days, compared with 34 days for general medical and surgical patients and 186 days for tuberculosis patients

Vets Should Safeguard Discharge Certificates

Officials at the Columbus Branch Office of the Veterans Administration urge all World War II veterans to take every precaution to safeguard their original discharge certificates VA officials emphasize that original discharge certificates are required for government guarantees on GI loans They recommend that the original discharge certificates be retained in a secure, fireproof place. Photostatic or certified copies are acceptable in applying for most veterans' benefits

• • •

Vets Should Specify Insurance Payments

Settlement provisions of GI Insurance provide that veterans may select a combination of payments but unless they specify the type of payments desired benefits will be remitted in monthly installments

The optional settlements, which became effective last August, range from lump sum payments to monthly installments during the life of the beneficiary Under the original law, the only settlements authorized were monthly income or annuity payments

Veterans should specify whether they want part of the payments to their beneficiaries made in a lump sum after death and the remainder in monthly installments over a given period or during the lifetime of their beneficiaries

THE NATION TODAY

Truman Message May One Day Place with Monroe Doctrine

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 13—President Truman's talk to congress on Greece and Turkey may be as memorable as the Monroe doctrine.

His call for active American help in the internal affairs of those two European countries is a turning point in American history.

James Marlow

In brief, he said.

Those countries are in danger of falling under Communism. We must stop the spread of Communism some time. Let's do it now.

But there's a paragraph in the Monroe doctrine which can be used to justify the action Mr. Truman has taken.

When he issued the doctrine in 1824 — one of the reasons was to block Russian hopes of grabbing Oregon — President Monroe said in part:

We won't let any foreign country come into the western hemisphere to interfere with the affairs of American nations.

Keep Noses Out of West

We've stuck to that. We've kept foreign powers from sticking their noses into the western hemisphere.

But—

We interferred in Nicaragua, Haiti, Santo Domingo and built up a lot of ill-will for ourselves in the minds of Latin Americans.

For years we've been trying to erase that feeling by our "Good Neighbor" policy toward Latin America.

But we've always, except in wartime kept out of the internal affairs of European nations. Now Mr. Truman, worried over Russian expansion, wants to change that.

Is that contrary to the Monroe doctrine? Not if you look at a paragraph in that doctrne which says:

We won't interfere in the internal affairs of European nations unless "our rights are invaded or seriously menaced."

National Security Involved

Yesterday, in talking to congress, Mr. Truman said we must help Greece and Turkey because out "national security" is involved.

There's no doubt about the greatest problem of our time. Can capitalism, under American leadership, live peacefully side by side with Communism, under Russian leadership?

Or, will the question have to be answered at least by war between this country and her allies and Russian and her allies.

Communism has spread in Europe since the war. Communist guerrillas in Greece have been seeking to overthrow the government there.

Turkey has been stiff-arming Russia, her neighbor, a long time.

If Greece and Turkey fall under Communist control, Russia will dominate the whole Middle East and maybe Africa and Asia.

With that kind of enormous tide of Communism, those countries in Europe which now are not Communist might have to succumb.

Would Face Red World

Then the United States and the western hemisphere—some of the American nations might go Communist too — would face a Communist world.

By preventing Communist control of Greece and Turkey, this country would be blocking the spread of Communism.

Further, by such a move it would be leaving isolationism behind and moving into leadership of the non-Communist world.

But all this raises questions—big questions.

Greece and Turkey are in Russia's backyard. What would we do if Russia tried to do in some Latin American country what we're talking of doing in Greece and Turkey?

We'd shake the Monroe doctrine at Russia, sure. But what will we do if Russia sets up a Monroe doctrine of her own now to warn us away from European countries?

She probably won't, at this time. We're stronger than Russia now. We have the atomic bomb.

Russia May Get Bomb

But the time may come when Russia will be as strong as we are, or stronger and have a bomb of her own. What then?

So is this where we start—and then stop—in taking a hand in the internal affairs of Russia's neighbors?

Or do we go on from here using our wealth and strength, trying to bolster up nations as a wall against Communism? Can we do that indefinitely?

There's this, too. The Greek and Turkish problem might have been solved — just might — by the United Nations. But Mr. Truman says there's no time for that now. We're going to do the job.

But now will other nations in the UN—Russia for instance—use our example in Greece and Turkey as an excuse for acting on their own outside the limits set by the UN?

Is what Mr. Truman proposes now going to have a lasting effect on the United Nations?

City Court Payments Low During February

Disbursements to city, county and state agencies made by municipal court from fines collected during February amounted to $2,305.19, Clara Fleck, deputy clerk, reported today.

Collections by the court last month totaled less than any previous month in the memory of present court officials.

From criminal fines the city received $1,261.85. Of that figure, $1,261 was paid into the general fund and $91.35 went for street repair. The city's share of payment to the law library amounted to $585.20 and the county's $37. The county treasurer received $129.20; the sheriff's turnkey fee amounted to $9. The state treasurer received $191.35, $100 of which went to the state liquor department and $91.35 to the state highway department.

State highway patrol fines are divided between the city street repair fund and the state highway department.

Money from costs of civil cases amounting to $128.59 was paid to the city treasurer for the general fund.

2 NEW STARS EMERGE IN GOLDEN GLOVES SEMI-FINALS

Former Champ Shows He Still Has What It Takes

Earhart of Marion, Farina of Galion, Strahm of Carey Catch Crowd's Fancy.

By ART MYERS

Two new stars emerged and an established champion showed he still has it in the semi-finals of the Golden Gloves tourney at the armory last night.

Fourteen fights were staged before a crowd of approximately 700 as slight touches of flu kept some Monday night winners from competing. Finalists are lined up for all weight classes Friday night, however, Y's Men's club officials said.

Out-of-towners again dominated the tourney; only one being beaten by a Marion boy last night.

The three boys who caught the fancy of the crowd last night were Charley Farina of Galion, a middleweight; George Earhart of Marion, bantamweight; and Lawrence Strahm of Carey, 1946 bantamweight champion, now fighting as a featherweight.

Picture Boxer

The former two put their opponents away; Strahm showed as a picture boxer in decisively decisioning Dale Lama of Marion.

The 117-pound Earhart sprung the surprise package of the night. He drew a bye Monday and in last night's fight, his first, he spent the first two rounds taking a boxing lesson from Kenney Chevalier, an experienced boy and one of the top boxers among the lighter entries. Chevalier forced the fight for the first two rounds, doing as he pleased as Earhart stayed in a shell. He was a mile ahead on points going into the third round.

Suddenly Earhart came to life. A short, stocky lad, he staggered Chevalier with jolting hooks with both hands, sending the surprised boy down four times in rapid succession. Chevalier rose gamely each time only to be dumped again. Earhart got him into a corner and sent him down for the fifth time and as he rose, unsteadily, his handlers tossed in a towel and ended the fight.

Sportswriter Praises Earhart

Earhart was praised by Dale Adams, Detroit Free Press sports reporter, who was down to get a look at Ward Watkins, Delaware heavyweight, as "the best little Golden Glover I've seen in 10 years." Adams predicted the 17-year-old Earhart would go places if brought along properly. The Detroit newspaperman plans to stay over Friday to get another look at him and to see Watkins, who is booked to fight in the heavyweight finals against Pat Patterson.

Charley Farina of Galion, 150, who TKO'd Bill Davenport of Delaware Monday, kept the Indian sign on the Delaware contingent last night with a clean knockout over Ray Brodnax. And in doing it, he looked 100 per cent improved over his Monday night's performance.

In Monday night's fight, his first, he was a tough but overeager, nervous and awkward fighter. Last night he had poise, called his shots and put a tough and experienced boy away in decisive fashion.

Down for Quick Count

Brodnax offered a snake-swift left jab and the fine footwork and covering ability characteristic of the Delaware contingent, trained by Buck Wilson. But in the second round Farina bulled in close and opened up on Brodnax's body. He went down for a quick count in what seemed a slip after being hit in the body with several of Farina's inside hooks.

A few seconds later Farina got him on the ropes and punished him unmercifully in the body. He went down and rolled under the ropes, taking a full count of ten. He was unable to rise and had to be helped from the ring by his trainers.

Lawrence Strahm, 124, of Carey, feinted, blocked, weaved and pounded openings in Dale Lama's defense for three rounds to take an easy decision and give the customers a look at a boxer of near-professional ability. He stepped up his offensive in the second and third rounds and, although he sent Lama down for a count at the end of the second, he was unable to put the game Marion lad away for keeps.

Moves Nearer Crown

Briss Craig of Delaware moved nearer the lightweight crown in TKO'ing Allen Ross of Marion. Craig, a fast and sharp puncher, found a willing opponent in the Marion boy, but Allen was unable to match Craig's punching accuracy. By the middle of the first round he had taken too many sharp blows to the face and was forced to quit by a profusely bleeding nose.

James Wood, 160, of Delaware, a murderous puncher, stopped game Bob Chapman, 160, of Marion midway in the last round of their bout. Chapman refused to quit despite the pounding of the older Delaware boy, but the referee decided he had had enough and stopped the fight.

Harold Knapp, Marion bantamweight, looked good in stopping Bill Miller in the third round of their bout. Knapp picked his openings and had Miller in trouble from the start. Referee Jimmy Wilson stopped the fight.

Gene Coulson, 100 pounds, took a split decision from Bob Litell in a well-boxed paperweight bout.

Harold Carpenter, rangy Marion bantamweight, looked good in decisioning a seasoned Don Byles of Delaware. It was the only bout in which a Marionite licked one of the invading forces.

Jack Davis TKO'd Tom Rose in the second. Both are Marion paperweights.

A Galion paperweight, George Bird of Galion, stopped Bob Lowery, 77, of Marion in the second round of their bout. Lowery had trouble staying out of corners, which turned out to be unhealthful places for him.

Kenny Smith, 91, of Marion pounded a game Sam DeLong throughout their bout, but was unable to put him away for keeps. DeLong refused to quit, despite the pounding he took from the heavier boy and lasted the route. Smith took a unanimous decision.

Free-Swinging Paperweight

Robert Sherman decisioned Carl Northrup in a free-swinging paperweight match.

Earl Foster, Marion flyweight, was credited with a TKO when William Franklin was unable to answer the bell for the second round of their flight. Franklin was on the canvas when the bell ended the first round.

Dick Obenour, 123, took a split decision from Bill Dixon in a bout which offered a bit of wrestling and football along with the boxing.

Referees were Jimmy Williams, Dr. A. J. Wagner, and John Lewis. Judges were Don Burton, R. G. Smallwood, Bert Curtis, and Ike Jones.

It's Tag Team Wrestling Tonight

Marion wrestling fans are in for a big evening tonight at the Armory when Gil LaCross and Rufus Jones team up against the team of Duke Keomuka and Angelo Martinelli. All four men are well known here for their action on the Marion canvas but it'll be LaCross and Martinelli's first start in several years. Both men have been doing most of their grappling in other parts of the country. A ninety minute time limit has been set for the tag match which will be of little benefit for the above four men because once they get started it won't take them that long to find out who or what team is the best. There will be two thirty minute matches before the team bout in which Gil LaCross will try to pin Keomuka, the Jap and Rufus Jones will try to take the measure of Angelo Martinelli. A ten minute prelim between Don Baker and Gene Pollack, two local boys, will open the show at 8:30. If you haven't your ringside call 2745 for the best seats.—Adv.

Boudreau Puts Indian Sign on Tribe's Clown

By The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz., March 13—The clowning of Max Patkin, Cleveland Indians' coach and funnyman, no longer will be permitted during games, Manager Lou Boudreau said today.

The Tribe pilot said his actions take the players' minds off the game.

Boulreau came up with a sore arm yesterday but he had a capable replacement at shortstop in Jack Conway, who belted four singles and a double as the Indians thumped the New York Giants 12 to 7 in an exhibition game. The triumph gave the Redskins a 3 to 2 edge in the series.

CORRECTION

The name of Tucker Smith of Richwood was omitted from the list of players who were named to the All-Mid-State basketball team. This player received honorable mention.

O.S.U. SPRING GRID PRACTICE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 13 — Coach Wesley Fesler of Ohio State today announced outdoor spring football practice for his new Buckeye charges would start March 25.

SKIDS GREASED FOR 8 Y TOURNEY TEAMS

Weekend Tilts To Thin Ranks by Elimination.

Even in a double elimination tournament footing becomes precarious when opening sessions are over.

That's the case in the Y.M.C.A.'s double elimination tourney in which eight more games will be run off Friday and Saturday nights.

Losers of six of these games will be scratched from the list. This weekend will thus be the first in which clubs are liquidated wholesale.

Games which will start the weekend's activities are Smith's vs. the Buckeyes at 8 tomorrow night on the upper floor and Junior Chamber vs. Martel Elevator at 8 on the lower.

Neither team in the opener on the upper floor has dropped a tournament game so the loser will still be around, but the loser of the Martel-Junior Chamber affair will be scratched.

In follow-up games on both floors the losers get the axe. Morral Supply meets Martel Independent on the upper floor and Fairfield meets Claridon Ex-Hi on the lower.

Saturday night's main attraction will pit Guy's against the winner of the Smith's-Buckeye games, the winner of this one to go to the finals. It will start at 8 on the upper floor.

Following on the topside boards, Kirkpatrick and Sally Ann Inn with a loss each will meet.

On the lower floor at 8 McMillen Feeds will play the winner of the Junior Chamber and Martel Elevator tilt and another will drop out.

In the following game on the same floor Universal Cooler meets the winner of the Morral Supply and Martel Elevator game and it's another case of "that's all" for the defeated.

Flu May Be Biggest Name In Cage Tourney Lineups

Several Regional Contestants Report Ailing Stars Who May Miss Games.

By FRITZ HOWELL

Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., March 13—Tournament tid-bits, or this and that about the Ohio high school basketball boys:

Influenza may play an important role in the regional tournaments getting under way tonight, in which 16 class A and 16 class B teams will battle for next week-end's state finals berths.

Unbeaten class B Frazeysburg reported it had four germ-laden athletes who might not be able to play; class A Canton Township reported its starting forwards, Ed Palmer and Mervin Hill, were abed with the same illness; Findlay's Coach Carl Bachman and three varsity members were ill at home with flu, and Barberton's star guard, Harold Naragon, was nursing a badly-sprained wrist.

Regionals Start Tonight

The regionals start tonight with class B contests at three spots, the remaining class B and four class A tournaments getting under way tomorrow.

Tonight's games:

At Kent: Springfield Township 26-4 vs. Columbiana 21-1; Strasburg 29-1 vs. Lowellville 21-4.

At Bowling Green: New Knoxville 18-2 vs. Holgate 22-1; Gibsonburg 21-4 vs. Troy-Luckey 24-1.

At Springfield: Bradford 19-8 vs. Plain City 26-1.

Plain City, despite its fine record, isn't regarded as a top heavy favorite over the oft-beaten Bradford squad.

Cambridge can thank Massillon High school for its appearance in the New Concord class A regionals. Willie Matthews, Massillon star of last season, shifted to Cambridge this year and tops the team in scoring.

Ciney Hopes for Encore

Only one Cincinnati team has ever gone to the state finals—the same Roger Bacon squad which meets defending champion Middletown in Friday night's class A game at Dayton. In 1938, when the Cincinnati Spartans lost in the semi-finals, and in 1939 when they were beaten in the finals, guard Charles O'Leary was the team's sparkplug. Now O'Leary is coaching the team.

Last week's Akron district tourney gave the rest of the state something to shoot at in the attendance line—attracting 18,796 fans to six sessions. No one could estimate the number turned away, but at one session the gates were opened at 5:30 p. m., and locked 50 minutes later on a full house. The tourney grossed $14,180.50.

In the district tournaments the winners, runners-up and consolation victors received trophies—while the consolation losers received a new ball, presumably to give 'em an early start to practice up for next time.

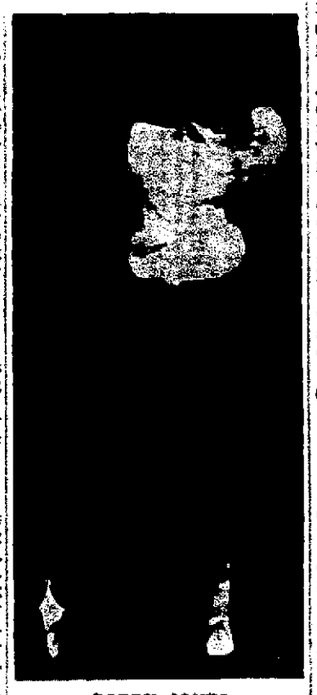
... a poll of the nation's sports ... Jones' Grand Slam was voted the most outstanding sports feat of all time.



BOBBY JONES
Scored Top Golfing Feat

Throughout his competitive career, Jones was regarded as being as much of a gentleman as he was a golfing genius. England termed him "an ambassador of good will."

Born Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., in Atlanta, March 17, 1902, Jones won five U. S. amateur titles and four U. S. opens. He took three British opens and one British amateur, the latter through a 7 and 6 victory over Roger Wethered.

Jones retired after signing a contract to make 12 one-reel sound motion pictures "How I Play golf." It was estimated the venture brought him $250,000.

Won Title at Eight

Bobby's golfing triumphs are worth a book. At eight he won the Atlanta Athletic Club's junior championship. Two years later, he scored an 80 on Atlanta's East Lake course. At 14 he took the Georgia state amateur, qualifying for his first National amateur. He lost in the third round.

But it was in this 1916 tournament at the Merion Cricket club, Haverford, Pa., that the Atlantan became known as the Kid Wonder. In the qualifying round he shot a sparkling 74.

After two years of Red Cross matches during World War I, Bobby reached the final round of the U. S. amateur at Oakmont in 1919, losing to J. D. Herron, 5 and 4.

At 21 Jones won his first major title, beating Bobby Cruickshank in the 1923 National open.

Grand Slam in Four Months

The popular Georgia Tech graduate of 1922, in winning the four major golfing titles in four months, achieved what no one dreamed possible.

It was page one news when Jones quit the amateur golfing ranks on Nov. 18, 1930, less than six months after his victory in the British amateur, the first of his successes on the way to the 1930 Grand Slam. The news shocked the sports world, for Bobby retired at the crest of his career.

At the time, Jones said he had no intention of turning pro, explaining in his modest manner that he as prompted to retire because he felt his motion picture contract conflicted with the actual letter of the amateur rules of the United States Golf Association.

Planned Augusta Course

During his year of competitive golf, Bobby was a keen student of the courses he played. Someday he hoped to have a hand in building one a bit different from the conventional type of course in this country.

This he did in Augusta when in 1931 he aided Dr. Allster MacKenzie, Scotch architect, in laying out the Augusta National Golf club.

The first tournament was held in 1934 and it was called the Masters'. Jones returned from retirement for the event but the best he could do was a three-way tie for 13th with a 294.

The Masters' is Bobby's only competitive golf but every so often he shows a flash of his old form. In the second round last April his 72 equalled par but he carded 77-78 on the next two rounds. Lack of competition and "putting jitters" took their toll but those who watched the 54-year-old wizard of another era knew Bobby Jones never was one to make excuses.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Mystery of the Rocking Chair

Ma Hoskins has a favorite rocking chair that's worn and shabby, with a noisy creak. Pa Hoskins has listened to that squeak for thirty years . . . and he decided to do something about it. So he bought a new rocker, and hid the other in the barn.

Ma allowed as how grateful she was . . . but when Pa missed her one afternoon, he heard a familiar sound that led him to the barn. There was Ma rocking happily in her old chair—squeak . . . squeak.

No need to tell you how Pa felt. Quick as a wink he hid the new rocker and then brought Ma's old chair back to the house. Now when he hears that squeak, he looks at the mellow glass of beer he's drinking and says to himself: "She's just as entitled to her small pleasures as I am."

From where I sit, that's one of the reasons the Hoskinses are the happiest, oldest-married, peacefulest folks in our town.

INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL HEARS SAFETY TALKS

Three State Men on Marion C. of C. Program.

Safety talks by three representatives of the safety and hygiene division of the Ohio industrial commission featured a meeting of the industrial safety council of the Marion Chamber of Commerce Wednesday noon in the Y. M. C. A.

Speakers were James H. Fluker, division superintendent; Forrest P. Smith, safety conference promotional director and Sidney Smith, safety advisor.

Superintendent Fluker spoke on "The Survival of Man Over His Own Inventions." Forrest Smith discussed the cooperation of his department with industry to reduce working hazards and talked on promotion of the seventeenth All-Ohio Safety congress in Columbus April 15, 16 and 17. The meeting is sponsored by the industrial commission of Ohio.

Sidney Smith described his work for safety with local industry. Safety standings of local industries for February were announced, followed by a general discussion on current accidents. The following industries reported no accidents during last month: Alloy Cast Steel Co., Arro Expansion Bolt Co., Colonial Poultry Farms, Fairfield Engineering Co., Houghton Sulky Co., Marion Engineer Depot, Marion Machine and Tool Co., Marion Metal Products Co., the Ohio Public Service Co. and the Osgood Co.

Preserve Thy Work Alive, Evangelist's Subject

Rev. Russel Boaz of Youngstown, spoke at the Greenwood Evangelical United Brethren revival service last night on the text, "Revive thy work in the midst of the years," Heb. 3:2. His subject was "Preserve Thy Work Alive." Among other things, he said, "The spiritual state of Israel in the days of Habbakuk had changed since the dedication of the temple by Solomon. The furnishings of the temple, the priests and all the rest were there unchanged, but there was something lacking. At first they were unable to enter the temple on account of the presence of the Lord. But now, cold ordinances of a ritualistic religion and a form of godliness without the power, the inward essential, enveloped them. Israel was carrying on her temple service just as her forefathers had done, but the divine power was lacking in her children.

'They needed the divine fire in their souls. Today the Christian world faces the same need. The prayer of the saint is once again 'O Lord, preserve thy work alive in the midst of the years.' We are not making ourselves serve the interests of the church, but rather making the church serve our interests. Conversion includes giving all you are and expect to be, over to the Lord."

MARION GIDEONS CAMP ENROLLS NEW MEMBERS

Dinner Meeting Held: Talk Given by Rev. Billings.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. May were welcomed as members of the Marion Camp of Gideons and the Women's auxiliary at a dinner meeting Tuesday night at First Evangelical United Brethren community house. Rev. and Mrs. N. H. Billings, Mrs. Irwin Jobe and Patty Keller were guests. It was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Leo Keller became members recently.

Rev. Billings spoke, Mrs. Jobe presented a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Dutt, prayers were offered by H. J. Klinefelter and Max Graham, several gave testimonies, and choruses were sung. Mr. May spoke briefly concerning Testaments that were given out by the Gideons at Harding High school where he is principal. The men's group and auxiliary had separate business sessions in charge of Harry Crowner and Mrs. Crowner respectively. Howard Jones offered the closing prayer of the men's session and Mrs. H. J. Klinefelter closed the auxiliary session with prayer.

At the joint meeting Rev. Billings used as his subject "Personal Work of the Church of Jesus Christ." In part he said, "The all important work of the church of Jesus Christ is to reproduce itself in other Christians. The greatest work we are to do as Christians is to win other souls to him. There are three important requirements for being a soul winner. First, we have to be filled with the Holy Ghost. The fullness of the Holy Spirit makes us soul winners. Second, we need to be led by the Holy Spirit. There are people who are filled with the Holy Spirit but who do not allow the Holy Spirit to lead them. Third, we need to be spirit taught. The way to win souls is the Bible way."

CIO COUNCIL TO ACT AGAINST LABOR CURBS

Proposed Legislation Discussed at Meeting Here.

The Marion Industrial Union Council (CIO) at a meeting in its headquarters on East Center street Tuesday night, voted to take immediate action to curb anti-labor legislation before the Ohio state legislature and the national congress.

The matter was referred to the executive board of the council with a recomendation that the board take immediate action.

Ellis Oiler, president of the council, stated "the American labor movement will be confronted with the most serious struggle in its history if the state legislature and congress enact the anti-labor bills that are now before those bodies." He cited what he termed "disastrous effects" on organized labor upon the issuance of government injunctions in the years before the passage of the Norris-LaGuardia act.

Edward Duck, international representative, U.A.W. (CIO) spoke of the "need to arouse the American people to the seriousness of the present situation in which the supreme court handed down a decision against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers."

Delegates representing the various affiliated local unions of the council spoke on the "urgent necessity" of immediate action against proposed anti-labor bills in the congressional and state legislative committees.

Herman Rinehart of local 2721, United Steel Workers, was elected attendance secretary to replace A. L. Barnhard.

STOCKS CONTINUE ON AN EVEN KEEL TODAY

NEW YORK, March 13—Selected stocks continued on better than an even keel today although many market leaders did little or nothing.

Dealings slowed after a moderately active opening and mild irregularity persisted until Monday midday when prices stiffened here and there. Gains of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Attracting support were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Owens-Illinois, U. S. Gypsum, Burlington Mills, Atlantic Coast Line, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania Railroad and Great Northern Railway. Occasional stumblers were Chesapeake and Ohio, Woolworth, Western Union "A," Johns-Manville and Standard Oil (NJ).

BUDGET

said was 33 1-3 per cent more than they got last biennium.

The "adjustment" allocation would be made to the education department for school districts on the basis of 40 per cent of their distributions next May 31.

The bonus to Ohio's 40,000 teachers would average $150 if all districts made full distribution of their shares to their instructors, the governor estimated at a press conference.

Here's how the schools would get the $160,000,000:

A total of $40,000,000 for the last half of 1947, added to the $30,000,000 already appropriated for the first half year, and $80,000,000 for 1948, for a total of $150,000,000.

Balance From Adjustment Fund

The balance would come from the $6,000,000 "adjustment" allocation plus $4,000,000 for education department purchase of school buses for "additional aid" districts.

Herbert said increases for the welfare department were needed because some 37,400 institutional employes had been placed on an eight-hour work day basis and hospitals added at Tiffin, Cambridge, Youngstown, Cleveland and in Summit county. The Mt. Vernon hospital will be ready for occupancy this year, he predicted.

The huge boost in requests for old age pension funds was attributed largely to benefit increases from $40 to $50 a month granted by the last legislature and inclusion of county home inmates among recipients.

The budget message included $2,285,000 for building repairs and Herbert said requests for capital improvements would be made later.

Emphasizing that proposed expenditures were within estimated income, the governor said the $101,000,000 in the post war reserve fund and general revenue fund balance of Jan. 1 should be left intact.

Walks Neat Tight Rope

The governor turned in a neat job of tight rope walking to show that his figures were close to both senate and house reports on 1947-48 finances.

By adding $28,234,000 in federal funds for state matching and other purposes to the $422,000,000 which a special house committee said should be used as the basis for 1947-48 appropriations, Herbert said the total would exceed $450,000,000.

He then explained that a report by Sen. Albert L. Daniels (R-Highland), senate finance committee chairman, showing $488,000,000 in anticipated revenues for the biennium, include the $37,000,000 local government fund which should be deducted, leaving that total about $451,000,000.

"Therefore, the senate and house of representatives are substantially in agreement as to the total estimated revenues," Herbert asserted.

Suggests Realocations

The governor suggested realocations of intangible property tax revenues so that sums from bank deposits and shares of capital financial institutions would be allocated to counties of origin and distributed by county budget commissions to local governments on the basis of need.

In event that proposal was carried out, Herbert said, sales tax appropriations to local governments should be made correspondingly smaller.

"In an event," he added, "I urge that there be no deviation from the present formula or method of distribution of sales tax revenues to local governments" (on the basis of 75 per cent tax duplicate and 25 per cent population).

The governor estimated that recommended amounts for schools, public welfare and state universities represented 87 per cent of total appropriations from the general revenue fund and said he had been forced to trim $40,000,000 from requests by department heads to keep the state on a pay-as-you-go basis.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I DISMISSED Mary's question with the briefest of explanations, for I was anxious to get at the task of caring for her which I saw before me.

"Aunt Katharine went with Uncle Jack to Washington, just before we came up here," I said. "They're still keeping their little suite here at the Lansfield, however."

"Nobody dares give up a toehold on a place to stay, once they have one," she said sagely.

"No, indeed," I replied, "but your father-in-law has been wonderful to all of us."

Face Shadows

Her face suddenly shadowed, and I knew she was thinking of her father-in-law's anger against her because she had left the sanitarium without consulting him.

"It isn't war-time," I said, anxious to divert her attention from her conscience, which, I knew, was stirring uneasily, "but the government is still troubled about problems of which Uncle Jack has special knowledge. So he was summoned down there, and he wouldn't stir without Aunt Katharine."

"I don't blame him!" she commented. "He certainly did without her a long time between the two World Wars. And she's such a peach!

"Not that he isn't a peach, too," she amended hastily. "And, of course, he wasn't to blame for his twisted war nerves, and then for that hellion, Ruth Hayes, the 'Wilderness Woman' down in South America, who suppressed letters and raised hell generally, between little spots of treason. Did they ever hang her, or put her on the frying pan?"

Life Imprisonment

"No, worse luck," I said, with the bitterness I always shall feel toward the woman who caused Katharine Bickett such unhappiness. "Her sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

"But, Dearest!" I faced her determinedly. "I'm not going to be switched to a side track by this discussion of the Bicketts. You're a sick girl; not dangerously ill, but I'm taking no chances on you. I'm putting you to bed—pronto, as your Uncle Dicky would say—but the question is, where?"

As if the mention of Dicky's name had caused him to emerge like a genie from a bottle, his well-known tattoo sounded on the door, and Mary sat up abruptly.

"That's Uncle Dicky!" she said, in patient alarm. "And I can't see him! I can't! I know he's still mad at me."

"Lie down!" I commanded sternly. "You know your uncle never stayed angry at anybody for over a minute. And I know him. He wasn't angry, only scared, because he hadn't expected you. He probably has a piece of humble pie in each hand, and is preparing to eat them."

Delighted Giggle

I had counted on Mary's delighted giggle—she is the most volatile creature I ever have known—and when she caught at my gown.

"Okay," she said; "I'll be good. But don't think you're putting anything over on your little Mary. When my revered uncle went out of here you told him not to come back until you telephoned him. So ergo—therefore, Q.E.D., and all the rest of it—when you beat it away from here just before my darling step-mamma-in-law left, you went to telephone Uncle Dicky, and tell him—what?"

She shot the last question at me, and I shook my fist at her, even as I smiled down at her.

"I'd spank you if you didn't have a temperature," I told her, as I started for the door. I knew that Dicky would not dare to repeat his knocking, but that he would be alarmed if I did not get to the door before any more seconds had passed.

But there was nothing uncertain about her uncle's swift stride toward her. He caught her slight figure up from the couch and hugged her tightly.

"Darling Brat!" he said. "I hope your aunt has a nice suit of sackcloth and a bowl of ashes ready for me. I'm ready to wallow in them."
